j. bouey | *A Message from Mx. Black Copper

Mx. Black Copper, a trans-dimensional, hyper-empathic being, projects their consciousness back to our time from a future that has abolished oppression and reversed climate change. ##### Program B | 8:30pm: Nina Laisné and François Chaignaud, Flamenco Rosado, ankita sharma, Isa Spector

Nina Laisné and François Chaignaud | *Mourn, O Nature!

“Why awaken me, O breath of spring,” from the opera Werther by Jules Massenet, was one of the airs that Michael Jackson sang in the intimacy of his own studio. This little known and intriguing piece of information is the starting point for Nina Laisné and François Chaignaud’s project, Mourn, O Nature!. In this film, presented with Ciné-Corps, the artists reinvent a Werther who has been absorbed by Jackson and shares a fascination for nature, the desire to revisit ancestral legends, and the expression of a distressing love. The performer sings, dances, and metamorphoses; he slips into different vocal and physical registers and seems to continue Michael Jackson’s dream of total expression.

Flamenco Rosado

Flamenco Rosado will share a short excerpt of their work that straddles the experimental and traditional flamenco framework.

ankita sharma | *jagaana/Awaken/

In labor, Kali awakens to the demands of worship and is remade into an idol.

jagaana/Awaken/ is an excerpt from ankita sharma's dhoka/Betrayal/, in which Kali's ultimate power tips into destruction as Hinduism is colonized into propaganda for violence.

Isa Spector | *A Larger Body

A Larger Body is a meditation on masculinity set inside a story of a boy crossing a river with his pony.

Friday, June 7

Program A | 7pm: Thomas Choinacky, Smaïl Kanouté, Company [REDACTED], Shua Group

Thomas Choinacky | *Home is the Body

This "duet" asks: How can I learn empathy from my own body? The dancer, in formation with their duct tape mummy explores a slow, reflective movement score continually asking themselves to breathe into all parts of the body to find home.

Smaïl Kanouté | *Never Twenty One

Echoing the hashtag #Never21, coined by the Black Lives Matter movement, the dance film Never Twenty One presented by Ciné-Corps, wishes to pay tribute to the victims of gun violence in New York, Rio, or Johannesburg... who will never turn 21 years old. Through their graffitied bodies, three dancers embody both the words of the victims and their families, and the evils they have suffered. Like wandering spirits, they tell us about these stolen and broken lives. Moving from krump to electro, popping to contemporary dance, different energies slowly come through to bring out the victims invisible presence and name their unspeakable pain.

Company [REDACTED] | *My Apocalypse

My Apocalypse is an annihilation drama on the shores of Times Square Beach. Shame monsters converge at the edge of personal and societal collapse, rolling, rocking, and grabbing their way into the future.

Shua Group | *Over

Delving into the relational powers between voice and movement, the Detroit-based Shua Group presents Over, a performance about attention, limits, survival, and grace.

* * * * *

Program B | 8:30pm: Clément Cogitore, Estrellx/EHQS, Shannon Yu/SHA Creative Outlet, Karley Wasaff | Kinetics with Karley

Clément Cogitore | *Les Indes Galantes

Ciné-Corps film: Les Indes Galantes is an opera-ballet created by Jean-Philippe Rameau in 1753.

Clément Cogitore adapts, in collaboration with three choreographers Bintou Dembélé, Brahim

Rachiki, and Igor Carouge, a short part of the ballet by mobilizing a group of krump dancers, a dance form born in South Central Los Angeles in the early 1990s as an expression of protest against police brutality. The colonial overtones of this 18th-century opera, which presented toxic stereotypes of non-Europeans are removed in the film's re-envisioning, opening up a space for collective movements that offer justice, inclusion, and freedom to everyone.

Estrellx/EHQS | *The Switch

The Switch is a solo performance that unfolds within an imaginary dark room where edging is foregrounded and foreplay is extended, where the tension between words and psychosomatic states moves in and out of obscurity and opacity. The Switch asks, Is a protest a protest if it cannot be heard, seen, or felt? What other forms of subtle, rhizomatic, telepathic, and erotic protesting are possible to conjure within the realm of the unseen?

Karley Wasaff | @kineticwithkarley | *XwhY

XwhY is a compositional-improvisational score that explores the restrictions and tension that gender markers place on a person. This score utilizes memories and "X marks the spot" as movement scores to enunciate the hardships of nonbinary/female identities.

Shannon Yu/SHA Creative Outlet | *Shapeshifter

Shapeshifter is a solo dance exploration of consciousness through textures of movement and sound. A mixed streamlining of Asian roots and hip-hop culture.

Saturday, June 8

7pm: Audrée Juteau, Zoey Gauld, Catherine Lavoie-Marcus, and Ellen Furey | *Mystic-Informatic

This collaborative work features two large metal structures, a computer from 1983, and small, yellow 3D-printed sculptures in a scenography evoking the ruins of capitalism and the waste produced by the constant renewal of technology. The dance inside grows like an optimistic mushroom, the matsutake. Embodying a punk, apocalyptic, and feminist approach, the piece gives power back to dance and expels our ecological despair.

The Saturday evening performance will be followed by a reception.

Sunday, June 9

Program A | 12pm: Carole Arcega, Beatriz Castro Mauri, Chloë Engel, Johanna Meyer

Carole Arcega | *Hymen

Beatriz Castro Mauri | *girl crush

clean girl, tomato girl, girl dinner, girl math, cool girl, pick me girl, girl boss, corporate girl, good girl, bad girl, party girl, it girl, girl's girl, babygirl. girl crush is a solo exploration on the consumption, glorification, and manufacturing of girl-ISH-ness as an unavoidable phenomenon of internet presence.

Chloë Engel | *Rubber

Chloë Engel draws from their experience as a play therapist, the child of a psychiatric survivor, and a rubber enthusiast to build a practice with rubber that engages questions of pleasure, pathology, queerness, and madness.

Jordan Deal | *capeforce: prologue, stillness of villianess

Through further explorations of chaos force as a current that can be harnessed and transformed into subversive material, capeforce bathes in the communal subterranean currents of the dead and the ghosts of the fugitive and social zombie. As a metzu zombie dance, this compositional and choreographic exploration invites the Black imagining and the borders of madness into a dance with triple consciousness herself. Jordan Deal is a 2023 Black Artist Space to Create Resident Artist.

Lo Fi Dance Theory | *Move Freely

The Ciné-Corps film Move Freely is a documentary exploring dance as a life force within the marginalized Roma community in Belgrade, Serbia. This project brings together choreographer/director Wynn Holmes, cinematographer Andrew Amorim, and journalist Julia Kidder with a focus on Roma youth as they transcend imposed boundaries through dance and performance.

Aya Shabu | *LandED (excerpt)

LandED is a solo narrative dance journey about Aya Shabu, a second-generation African American woman of Bajan descent remembering her childhood memories marred by her grandmother's colorism, gender norms, and prideful notions of Black mobility. Arantxa Araujo in collaboration with Mariana Uribe | *Breathsculpt: Transformations Unveiled

With Breathsculpt: Transformations Unveiled, artist Arantxa Araujo collaborates with sound artist Mariana Uribe to create an intricate and immersive experience. Araujo repeatedly submerges her face in molten yellow beeswax, crafting a series of transformative masks that represent her evolving identities over time. Throughout the performance, moments of hypoxia occur due to obstruction of airway passages with the wax. This, plus a resonating soundscape, which includes Araujo's heartbeat as it changes overtime because of oxygen deprivation, deepens the exploration of self-discovery and the continuous cycle of metamorphosis. About Performance Mix Festival

For 38 years, New Dance Alliance's Performance Mix Festival has offered diverse emerging and mid-career artists an opportunity to share work with audiences in Manhattan. Annually, it offers this jam-packed program of local, national, and international artists with the direct aim to support the development of experimental works with the public. Performance Mix Festival (1986) was groundbreaking in that it was the only festival at that time exclusively dedicated to performance art in lower Manhattan. Its continued success is testimony to its vital necessity in New York's cultural community.

About New Dance Alliance

Incorporated in 1989, New Dance Alliance (NDA) is a performing arts nonprofit. Its mission, from the earliest days, has been to support emerging experimental movement-based artists. NDA has made an explicit commitment to equity and inclusion by creating programs that center the work of artists from historically marginalized communities of color, LGBTQ artists, and artists with disabilities. NDA provides space, residencies, performance, and networking opportunities that help artists cultivate relationships, develop their artistry, and open doors to share their work in the US and internationally. NDA's programs are: Performance Mix Festival, Black Artists Space to Create, LiftOff Residency, Satellite, Work Session, and Karen Bernard Projects. These programs support the work of more than 100 experimental artists and 2,500 audience members each year. <https://newdancealliance.org>

NDA's season was funded by the Bernstein Family Foundation, Consulate General of Canada in New York, Harkness Foundation for Dance, Mertz Gilmore Foundation, National Endowment for the Arts, New York State Council on the Arts, NYC Department of Cultural Affairs, Quebec Government Office in New York, and generous individual donors.
